

High School Woman of Excellence & Recipient of the LLWC Foundation Scholarship:

Tiffany Amber Landry

Fisher Middle-High School
Lafitte, Louisiana

Although being elected class president at the age of fourteen was her first taste of triumph, Tiffany Landry certainly did not end her superlative career there. She later became a noted student council member and treasurer, infusing the club with her effervescent passion for service and commitment. Her passion for helping others started after her family lost everything, including their home in Hurricanes Katrina and Rita. Since she knows what it is like to go through a hard time, Tiffany likes to turn the complexities of life into optimism by giving back to her community through several service projects she has implemented, including her signature “Help for the Homeless” backpacks. In addition, Tiffany has worked closely with students with learning disabilities during her afternoon tutoring schedule as a National Honor Society member, and has donated countless hours to such organizations as Key Club, where she raised funds for such deserving projects as the Eliminate Project, which focuses on eliminating maternal and neonatal tetanus in third-world countries.

A well-balanced student, Tiffany not only performs community service, but she is also a recognized artist, as one of her paintings hung in the Cannon Tunnel of the United States Capitol Building in 2013. In addition to being a winner of the 2013 Congressional Art Competition, she has had artwork published in “Celebrating Art” books and won a Jefferson Parish Art Achievement Award. As a junior, she devoted her time to the visual arts by attending the New Orleans Center for Creative Arts full-time after school. She has given back to her school with her talent by making

Tiffany Landry has served her classmates as an exceptional president throughout her four years in high school. She has also served her school through other leadership positions including Student Council publicist and treasurer, National Honor Society secretary, and Key Club vice-president. Tiffany is also a member of the yearbook club, and a former member of both the 4-H Club and the volleyball team.

Despite having a full schedule and several extra-curricular activities, Tiffany has maintained a 4.75 grade point average, scoring her the honor of being her class’s valedictorian. Her academic achievements have been commended by receiving the Jefferson Parish Superintendent’s Award, Principal’s List, and Patrick F. Taylor Foundation Scholar Award every year of high school. Never one to draw away from hard work, Tiffany’s classes include Advanced Placement in both English and science, in which she achieved an English Literature score that qualified her for college credit.

In the fall, Tiffany plans to attend Louisiana State University, double-majoring in business administration and graphic design. Her dream is to become the chief executive officer of a Fortune 500 company. As a distinguished business leader, she aspires to encourage and inspire young women that they can achieve anything they desire, despite society’s conventionalities.
